

hypotonic (hī-pō-ton'ik)

1. Having a lesser degree of tension.
2. Having a lesser osmotic pressure than a reference solution, which is ordinarily assumed to be blood plasma or interstitial fluid; more specifically, refers to a fluid in which cells would swell.

Syn: hypoisotonic

Prev